Definitions

Our privacy policy should be simple and understandable for everyone. The official terms of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) are usually used in this data protection declaration. The official definitions are explained in Art. 4 GDPR.

Server log files

When you visit our website, it is technically necessary for data to be transmitted to our web server via your internet browser. The following data is recorded during an ongoing connection for communication between your internet browser and our web server:

- Date and time of the request
- Name of the requested file
- The page from which the file was requested
- Access status
- Web browser and operating system used
- (Complete) IP address of the requesting computer

- Amount of data transferred

We collect the listed data in order to guarantee a smooth connection to the website and to make it easy for users to use our website. In addition, the log file is used to evaluate system security and stability as well as administrative purposes. The legal basis for the temporary storage of data or log files is Art. 6 Para. 1 lit. f GDPR.

Cookies

Our website uses cookies that are stored on your device by the browser and that contain certain settings for using the website (e.g. for the current session). Cookies serve to make our offer more user-friendly, more effective and safer. Cookies are small text files that are stored on your computer and saved by your browser. Most of the cookies we use are so-called session cookies, which are automatically deleted when the browser is closed. Other cookies remain on your device until you delete them or the storage period expires. These cookies enable us to recognize your browser the next time you visit. In some cases, cookies are used to simplify website processes by saving settings (e.g. keeping options that have already been selected). If personal data is also processed by individual cookies implemented by us, the processing is carried out in accordance with Art. 6 Para. 1 lit. b GDPR either to implement the contract or in accordance with Art. 6 Para. 1 lit. f GDPR to safeguard our legitimate interests in the best possible functionality of the website and a customer-friendly and effective design of the page visit.

You can set your browser so that you are informed about the setting of cookies and only allow cookies in individual cases, exclude the acceptance of cookies for certain cases or in general, and activate the automatic deletion of cookies when the browser is closed. The cookie settings can be managed for the respective browser under the following links.

You can also individually manage the cookies of many companies and functions that are used for advertising. To do this, use the corresponding user tools, available at <https://www.aboutads.info/choices/> or <http://www.youronlinechoices.com/uk/your-ad-choices>

Most browsers also offer a so-called "do not track function", with which you can indicate that you do not want to be "tracked" by websites. If this function is activated, the respective browser notifies advertising networks, websites and applications that you do not want to be tracked for behavior-based advertising and the like. Depending on the provider of your browser, you can find information and instructions on how to edit this function under the following links:
